Amber Fleming, PsyD, HSPP

Dr. Amber R. Fleming received her Bachelors of Science degree from the University of Indianapolis where she majored in both Psychology and Art Therapy. During her undergraduate tenure at the University of Indianapolis Dr. Fleming participated in four years of Division-II Women's Soccer as a collegiate student-athlete. Dr. Fleming then decided to pursue a graduate degree at her alma mater while participating as a graduate assistant for the Women's Varsity Soccer Team. Dr. Fleming completed a Masters of Arts in Psychology at the University of Indianapolis and continued on to pursue her Doctorate in Clinical Psychology with a specialization in health psychology and a focus on personality disorders and primary health care utilization.

Dr. Fleming completed a predoctoral internship at Park Center, Inc in Fort Wayne Indiana where she was trained from a generalist perspective and completed various rotations in Addictions, Psychological Evaluations and Multidisciplinary Community Medical Health. Dr. Fleming has since then worked for a community mental health system in the Indianapolis area performing psychological evaluations and conducting individual and family therapy for several court ordered populations.

Dr. Fleming has been a full-time staff member at Meridian Health Group since February of 2007 where she has been able to re-connect with her passion for working in a multidisciplinary medical setting treating individuals with co-occurring mental and medical diagnoses. Some of Dr. Fleming's additional professional interests include Psychological Testing, Personality Disorders, Health Psychology, Art Therapy, Family/Couples Therapy, and working with Children and Adolescents.

Dr. Fleming was born and raised in Fort Wayne Indiana. She and her husband have been married since 2005 and are planning to have their first child in November of 2007. In her leisure time Dr. Fleming enjoys playing soccer, completing home remodeling projects, making beaded jewelry, and spending quality time with friends and family.
